

ABSTRACT

10021656

The invention relates to a new vehicle differential that will rotate both axle sections under all conditions. Having positive traction capabilities and still allow variability between axle sections.

10021656-12201